

Class 01 4-H Market Lambs							Ribbon	Placing	VSS ID	Exhibitor Name	Club or Chapter	Ear Tag	Reason
Champion 4-H Market Lamb	Blue	1	76	Joseph Schuyleman	Wenatchee Heights 4-H Club	106	This is a very high quality market animal. I appreciate the mass that his structure has developed and allowed for meat to develop on. He has been conditioned to a market ready state and appears to have a very high cutability ratio. I appreciate the functionality of his stride, his depth of leg and square hip.
Reserve Champion 4-H Market Lamb	Blue	2	82	Austin Bell	Columbia River 4H	115	This is a very attractive wether lamb, who has an amazing silhouette. He appears to have an adequate amount of fat on him and looks to be a lamb that would be highly valued as a carcass. I am, however, using him as the second place lamb in this class due to two reasons. The first reason is due to a lack of mass. While this lamb has a decent carcass it doesn't surpass the class winner. The second reason is due to his skeleton. He is a little rugged over his top and does not walk with the most ideal form. These two faults are highly critical of a very commendable lamb, congratulations.
	Blue	3	52	Olivia Berdan	Wenatchee Heights 4-H Club	108	This lamb in third place will make a very acceptable carcass. From the video it could use a few more days on a high energy diet to add more fat over the meat to ensure that the meat cures correctly in the cooler or freezer. This lamb places third due to a few structural issues on the stride and a lack of mass. If I were change this sheep I'd add more width to her rack, just behind her neck, and to her hip. A very good project that the exhibitor should be proud of.
	Blue	4	54	Samarah Givens	Waterville 4-h club	134	While this lamb is fourth in class it will still receive a blue ribbon. It is a lamb that has acceptable market qualities. If we were to improve this lamb we would level the hip off from the profile view, clean the boldness of the front shoulder, as well as tighten up and smoothen its hip loin junction. Overall its lamb that can be appreciated for serving its purpose.

Class 02 FFA Market Lambs	Ribbon	Placing	VSS ID	Exhibitor Name	Club or Chapter	Ear Tag	Reason
Third Overall FFA Market Lamb	Blue	1	47	Isabel Fadenrecht	Cashmere FFA	122	This lamb is a very interesting lamb to study. From a carcass standpoint he will create a very appetizing carcass. He, however, has a few structural aspects that I would like to change. The main issue I have with his structure is when he's on the move his rear legs don't move as freely as I would like. This causes him to round off his hip on the move which gives the judge a less appealing sight and is not a desirable trait when producing livestock that need to be able to functional in all settings of production. With that, I still appreciate the qualities that this lamb brings to the table. He is big butted, big topped and long sided. A very well developed lamb that with a bit more fat would be a lamb would be a lamb that could do very well nationally.
	Red	2	51	Elle Spears	Cashmere FFA	132	This second place lamb is a lamb that with more time on feed would create a valuable carcass. It is a lamb that has a naturally wide rear base. This wide base, and long body, indicate to me that the lamb has potential to get to a much higher weight. Overall, this lamb is a good lamb that just needs more time on feed to be considered for a high placing.

Class 03 FFA Market Lambs
	Ribbon	Placing	VSS ID	Exhibitor Name	Club or Chapter	Ear Tag	Reason
Fifth Overall FFA Market Lamb	Blue	1	48	Madeleine Fadenrecht	Cashmere FFA	124	This lamb is a very attractive lamb that will win this class. While he could use more fat to cover his carcass he has a lot of product on him. He appears to be deep loined, legged and bodied. I appreciate his overall mass which allows him to carry so much muscle. He is a lamb that is very powerful and athletic. Thank you for raising a high quality individual.
Seventh Overall FFA Market Lamb	Blue	2	64	Isabelle Harris	Manson FFA	102	This lamb placing second is a lamb that has a commendable carcass however he has a few issues with his skeleton. On the move he roaches up in his spine and gives the appearance of having less length than he does. While this view he gives is not attractive, upon further inspection he has a very long and deep body. A well fed lamb that will make a great carcass.
	Blue	3	50	Sophie Graybill	Cashmere FFA	126	This lamb placing third in class is a lamb that is structurally. Very correct, I would love to see this lamb in a breeding class as her skeleton and build is beautiful. She however falls short of the lamb in second due to his superior carcass merits.
	Blue	4	46	Sydney Young	Cashmere FFA	133	This lamb, as a carcass, will be a very productive individual. I respect this lamb for that reason. I appreciate the front view of this lamb as his front legs are structurally sound and has a smooth chest floor. He could use a bit more of a level hip as well as width in his hip. His depth of leg is adequate but could be improved through genetic selection. He places 4th in this class as the class as his competitors do not lack in these areas.

Class 04 FFA Market Lambs
	Ribbon	Placing	VSS ID	Exhibitor Name	Club or Chapter	Ear Tag	Reason
Champion FFA Market Lamb	Blue	1	56	Kimberly Dodson	Cashmere FFA	121	This lamb is a respectable in many ways. He has a good skeleton and carcass in him. He has qualities that would allow him to compete at almost any level in the nation. I feel that with a few more days on feed he would be in the perfect condition to put in the freezer. A job well done.
Fourth Overall FFA Market Lamb	Blue	2	40	Katelyn Cooper	Cashmere FFA	118	This lamb on the move has a very attractive carcass in him. When he isn't bracing and showing a break in his hip loin junction he has a very attractive silhouette. If I were to improve this lamb I would clean up his stride and widen his natural stance.
	Red	3	77	Neely Ovenell	Cashmere FFA	129	While this lamb has one of the largest racks of the class he is just not put together as well as the sheep that place higher than him in the class today. He will make a commendable carcass and is fed out proficiently. This is a very good exhibition.
	Red	4	57	Austin Brownlee	Wenatchee High School FFA	111	While this lamb is last in class it is a lamb that will still produce a good carcass. He has a few structural issues that sort him to the bottom but with a few structural corrections of his top line and added mass a lamb like this could easily place higher in class.

Class 05 FFA Market Lambs
	Ribbon	Placing	VSS ID	Exhibitor Name	Club or Chapter	Ear Tag	Reason
Reserve Champion FFA Market Lamb	Blue	1	66	Debra Dodson	Cashmere FFA	120	This lamb is very impressive to study he has the most valuable carcass on him as well as a wide, open, and free, structure. He appears to have a deep loin, a deep leg, and long body. He also carries these on a skeleton that allow him to build such a carcass. This is a very strong contender, well done to the exhibitor.
Sixth Overall FFA Market Lamb	Blue	2	93	Kaden Keogh	Cashmere FFA	127	This lamb has been conditioned very appropriately by his exhibitor and they should take pride in their work. Your hard work is very apparent. This lab is built on a very sturdy and large structure that would allow this lamb to grow even more and carry more weight. This lamb falls short of the class winner due to his shorter body and hip.
	Blue	3	11	Kassidy Wilfong	Chelan FFA	100	This lamb is a very athletic and muscular lamb. While he has a lot of muscle on him he is very raw. He needs a week or so more on a high energy feed to help finish this lamb. If it had more condition on the lamb it would have been a hard sheep beat.
	Red	4	49	Kody Richards	Wenatchee FFA	114	This lamb was unfortunately sorted into a very competitive class, she is built on a good foundation but doesn't carry the mass that the other sheep in the class hold. This ewe is well finished and appears to have adequate fat cover.