Background

In 2019, Chelan County, Chelan PUD, and Washington Department of Natural Resources (WA DNR) gathered partners for two conversations about community resilience in the county, including elements related to WA DNR’s statewide Plan for Climate Resilience. This meeting will build upon those conversations to launch county-wide climate resilience planning with local stakeholders and partners. In this meeting, we will identify opportunities across sectors to increase resilience, strategies for supporting collaboration, and next steps for moving planning efforts forward.
