Update 7 1445 hours 6/6/2025

More than a hundred Officers, Agents, and Deputies Search and Investigate

More than 500 tips from the public, along with in depth investigating by detectives continue to narrow the focus of the joint operation seeking Mr. Decker.

Dozens more law enforcement professionals, both tactical and administrative, have converged on Chelan County and joined the investigation and the search for Travis Decker. Despite the many challenges faced and the complex on-going murder investigation, morale and effort remains extremely high within staff at the Command Post.

The investigation and operations continue as new surveillance video, photos, and tips from the public are continuously surfacing which aids in decision making. Out of an abundance of caution, we have been given notice to, and are working in conjunction with our surrounding counties in the event Mr. Decker moves through the forest into their jurisdiction. Additionally, the more agencies we can get involved, and the more the public remains vigilant, the better opportunity for success in the capture of Mr. Decker.

If you see Mr. Decker, please call 911 immediately and do not attempt or contact or approach him. Anyone with information is urged to call the CCSO tip line at 509-667-6845 or submit your information here: <https://www.co.chelan.wa.us/sheriff/forms/submit-a-tip>.

All the teams here at the Command Post want to again emphasize our appreciation for the public's support in this case. We here are also encouraged by the amount of support we are seeing from our community that is being given to the family of the victims. That support, in large part, sustains the effort, motivation, and morale of our team.

Currently, we do not have any scheduled press conferences but will update the media and public if one will be held. We understand there is a large demand for media and questions to be answered. Given current staffing requirements, we still cannot respond to individual media requests and all information will be given out via these media releases until further notice.
